CHARLES F. KELLY.

The eternal wrath of Ed Butler hangs over the head of the self-confessed boodler, Charles F. Kelly, for making public yesterday what he declares is a raft of lies and bluffs regarding the alleged bickering of the St. Louis politicians.

"Absolutely ridiculous," said the "Colonel," when seen at the saloon of James H. Cronin, at Twelfth and Walnut streets. "Why, I don't know this man Kelly, except in our family relations. I have given him money, but it was because he was in need and his family in straitened circumstances."

"He is the briber and the villain, which he paints me, and I will tell you why. Some time ago when I was planning a hotel at Market and Eighteenth streets Kelly was in the house of Delegates. In order to get some excavation done under the sidewalk, I had to get the approval of the authorities. I was in a hurry and asked Kelly to get the privilege granted to me as quickly as possible."

"He wanted $500 for his services and I gave it to him. Then he went and held the measure granting me the franchise in the committee of the lower house. I asked him to hurry the matter and he wanted $1,000 more for his trouble. I refused to give it to him and he held the matter up until it was too late, and the whole project tumbled through just on account of him."

CONTRIBUTED TO CAMPAIGN FUND.

"Another time when he was breaking in to politics, I contributed $500 to his campaign fund. Other than the time when he came to me and asked for money to take him to Europe, when I gave him $600 more, I never had any dealings with the man."

"Why did you give Kelly all this money if there was no understanding between you and him?"

"Because his family and mine were old friends, and he told me that he was in poor straits and said that he would pay it back again. It was all in the form of a loan, and I have not received one cent in return yet, nor do I expect to."

"What about the items of $50,000 and the other of $15,000 mentioned in the confession?"

"That was asked."

Butler became angry at this statement of Kelly's and answered warmly:

"Now, young man, I will give you some of the facts."

"Kelly is a notorious liar. I never had any of the political dealings with Kelly which he refers to in the printed confession. That document is not Kelly's. It was bought to revive the boom of Mr. Kelly's publication. It was published on the day of the primaries for political effect. I will give it no attention. Kelly, to say the very least, is an ingrate after the many charitable things which I have done for him and his wife. I gave her money nearly every time she came to see me. I buried his child for him."

"Political money?"

"No, sir; not political money, but charitable contributions. Kelly was not even supporting his family. He is the boodler, Ed Butler, in Europe, and I believe that he did, but that had no relation to me. The confession is a mass of lies and crookedness. Me giving this fellow Kelly $50,000? It's nonsense."

CRONIN'S OPINION OF KELLY.

"How was Kelly mixed in the combinations?"

"Let me say this," broke in Colonel Butler's relative, James H. Cronin.

"This fellow Kelly was never in any of the combinations which he states he was, and everything which he says is false."

"That is right," said the "Boss."

"He must be dreaming to think that he was"

JUDGE DISCHARGES KRAZT JURY PANEL

Not Influenced to Do So by Motion to Quash, but by Term's Ending.

HUNT'S CHARACTER ATTACKED

Affidavits by Johnson County Persons Reflect on Standing of Man Who Claims Bribe Was Offered Him.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Butler, Mo., Oct. 3.—The motion to quash the panel in the Krazt case, based upon the affidavits of C. O. Hunt, who alleged last week that he had offered a bribe by Sheriff Smith and Judge Francisco, came up to-day.

In addition to the two affidavits made by the Sheriff and Judge Francisco that Hunt's story was absolutely false and without the shadow of foundation, the attorneys for the defendant filed the affidavit of Morgan W. Sheppard of Warrensburg, where Hunt lived prior to 1897, and the affidavit of Mrs. Mamie Logan of Warrensburg.

Both documents made sensational disclosures, and were calculated to cast reflections upon Hunt's character and moral standing while he lived in Johnson County. The attorneys for the defense started to the court that they had just learned of Hunt's character and conduct where he lived up to 1897, and that other affidavits as to his character and other features of the case were on the way here, and asked for further time in which to file them. They said that while it was conceded, under the law, that the jury could not be held beyond the term which expired to-day, if under the law he could do so, he would hold the jury, as he considered it an excellent panel; that this being true, this was not the time or place to inquire further into Hunt's allegations, as that could be done in another way; and that the panel would therefore be discharged by operation of law.

Thereupon, Sheriff Smith jumped to his feet and in an impassioned speech said that he had been maliciously maligned by Hunt, and that he demanded the fullest investigation and asked that the Prosecuting Attorney file information against him. Prosecuting Attorney Ladd, who then filed an information against Sheriff Smith, so that the case can be tried in open court.

The Prosecuting Attorney stated that it was not clear that Hunt's affidavit charged an offense against Judge Francisco, but he was not therefore prepared to file an information against him. Hunt was present during the hearing.

ROOSEVELT'S YEARNING FOR PEACE UNDERSTOOD

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC AND NEW YORK HERALD.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 3.—(Copyright, 1904.)—The Novos Tretya says that Judge Parker's remarks in his message deprecating jingoism and an aggressive policy caused President Roosevelt to express a particular desire for peace, which Europe will know how to appreciate.

COURT SETS KELLY'S CASE FOR TRIAL OCTOBER 10.

Man Who Made Confession Yesterday Is Expected to Enter Plea of Guilty.

The case of the State of Missouri against Charles F. Kelly, charged with bribery in the City Lighting deal, was yesterday set for October 10.

When the case is called in Division No. 9, by Judge Taylor, it is believed that the former Speaker of the House of Delegates will enter a plea of guilty, and throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Charles A. Gutke will be arraigned on the same day, and probably will take the same course as Kelly.

VEILED PROPHET REIGNS TO-NIGHT

Twenty-Seventh Annual Street Pageant and Ball Center of Festivities.

TO ECLIPSE FORMER AFFAIRS.

World's Fair Scheme for the Parade and Decorations—Queen Will Be Crowned Beneath Cascades.

ROUTE OF PARADE.

The pageant will leave the den at 7 o'clock, go east on Walnut street to Twenty-first street.

North on Twenty-first street to Market street.

West on Market street to Laclede avenue.

West on Laclede avenue to Grand avenue.

North on Grand avenue to Lucas avenue.

East on Lucas avenue to Thirty-second street.

South on Thirty-second to Washington avenue.

East on Washington avenue to Fourth street.

South on Fourth street to Elm street.

West on Elm street to Broadway.

North on Broadway to Locust street.

East on Locust street to Fourth street.

South on Fourth street to Chestnut street.

East on Chestnut street to entrance of Merchants' Exchange.

Appearing for his twenty-seventh annual visit from his ethereal domain, the Veiled Prophet, master of the fall festival ceremonies, will hold sway tonight in St. Louis. His escort to the Court of Love and Beauty will be a brilliant pageant that would have dazzled the pomp and heraldry of Kings of other days.

In his suite and retinue will be St. Louis's best offerings and the thousands that see him in his winding parade of splendor over the gala route will give him royal welcome.

To-night is the social night of the year and the Veiled Prophet's ball and parade promises to be a dazzling climax of all the previous functions. With hundreds of foreign celebrities in the city, effort has been made to make the World's Fair year events the most brilliant of all. The pageant itself has been the result of a subject which would lend itself to effective treatment of the Exposition, "Art and Architecture," and several innovations have been made in the arrangements for the ball that latitude for more impressive effects might be obtained.

The pageant, consisting of twenty-two floats, the first being the Prophet's flaming throne, will leave the den at 7 o'clock for its long parade through the city. The most western line traversed will be Grand avenue, while the pageant will go as far north as Lucas avenue. The terminus of the pageant will be at the Merchants' Exchange.

While many departures have been made since the days of other pageants, a noticeable feature of the spectacle will be that, while the floats are constructed upon car trucks and draw their illumination from the overhead trolley wires, they will be drawn by horses, led by hooded goblins. Besides the regular police escort, the pageant will be preceded by a cavalcade of knights in armor and ornament of the more chivalrous days. Heralds, marshals and various dignitaries will also hold a place in the parade. Twelve bands will be distributed through the pageant, so that there will be almost continuous music at any point in the downtown district.

When the parade reaches the Merchants' Exchange, the Veiled Prophet and his retinue will dismount and enter the large chamber, which will be flooded by myriads of lights. After a short parade will follow the crowning of the queen of the ball. This year, will be not on the usual throne, but at the foot of a large cascade, which, with the cleverest conception in scenic effects, has been installed along the west wall. The central picture of the World's Fair has been transplanted in effect to the ballroom, and from it will shine thousands of tiny lights, twinkling and changing colors.

RUMOR THAT SHIPS HAVE STARTED OUT FROM PORT ARTHUR

Fighting on Land Around Besieged City Is Terrific, With Heavy Losses on Both Sides.

GEN. KUROPATKIN IS PUZZLED.

Scouts Are Unable to Locate Japanese Right, After Having Retreated Before It.

BIG SURPRISE IS POSSIBLE.

General Oku Engaged in Flanking Operations Toward the West—Movement Hitherto Regarded as a Feint.

JAPAN SOON TO ISSUE THIRD DOMESTIC LOAN.

London, Oct. 4.—The Standard's Tokyo correspondent reports that at a conference of bankers it was decided to issue immediately a third domestic war loan of $4,000,000, completing the loans of the current fiscal year.

The fighting on land around the besieged city is terrific, and the desperate efforts of the Russians to regain Port Kuroptkin, and thus recover the control of the city's regular water supply, have resulted in a great loss of life on both sides.

General Oku is across the Lun River, thus making a turning movement to the west.

According to prevailing military opinion General Kuropatkin will now have to send a force to attack him, but this is difficult, owing to the proximity of General Kuroki, whose army, constantly reinforced, probably is engaged in a flanking movement on the east.

The Russians are guarding the old bridge across the Lun River with a large force and it is likely that the engagement will take place there.

RUSSIANS ARE UNABLE TO LOCATE KUROKI.

Alarm at the War Office is occasioned by the lack of definite information regarding the exact whereabouts of Field Marshal Goyama's right wing.

The Russian scouts have lost touch with General Kuroki's main army, which may give increasing importance to the flanking movement westward under General Oku, which hitherto has been regarded as a feint for the real turning movement to strike at Kuropatkin's line of communication from the east. It also may contain the potentialities of a big surprise.

Ten days ago Kuropatkin and the War Office were convinced that the Japanese were concentrating at Sianschan and that an immediate advance was imminent in force.

Accordingly, the Russians fell back from the passes of the Da Mountain range without offering resistance.

But after several days they suddenly discovered that the Japanese were not pressing forward, and thereupon the Russian scouts pushed out to ascertain the cause. They penetrated as far as Sian and Sian, bringing back the startling intelligence that not more than a brigade of Japanese troops was there. This was followed up by important cavalry movements, and the reconnoitering of the Da range passes, but Kuroki's main body was not located.

SLOPE OF HIGH HILL LITTERED WITH DEAD.

Chefoo, Oct. 3.—Chinese who left Port Arthur October 1, and were previously engaged in burying the dead, say the effect of the Russians' shells and machine guns is terrific. The slope of a high hill was littered with mangled bodies and several heads and limbs. In one trench the Chinese buried 200 Japanese and 200 Russians.

Extremely severe fighting took place at a high hill, which was a very important position to the Russians.

The Japanese attacked repeatedly, day and night, finally occupying the position on the night of September 22, after suffering very heavy losses.

An attempt to retake this hill being extremely hazardous, General Stoessel refused to issue the order, but called for volunteers. Everybody called upon responded, whereupon a squad number of men were selected, Lieutenant Pogorsky and Captain Sytsch leading them.

Soldiers and officers alike carried grenades (explosive shells weighing from two to six pounds, which are thrown by hand), and with these they attacked the Japanese temporary fortifications and drove the latter from all of their positions. Several mines were exploded during the general battle, causing severe losses. The Russians calculate that the total Japanese losses for the four days' fighting reached 2,000 men.

Harry B. Hawes won every contested ward in his fight against the Butlers in the Democratic primaries yesterday.

Chief of all, Constable James P. Miles, was beaten in the Third Ward after one of the hardest primaries ever held in that strenuous neighborhood. In the Sixteenth John J. Burke's delegation defeated that of "Boots" Brennan, manager of the Miles-Barrett forces in that ward.

With slight variation, the Hawes forces managed by Hawes, A. C. Stuever and Charles Lemp—will control to-day's convention at the West End Coliseum, with a majority of about ninety-eight delegates. Late last night friends of Mr. Hawes conferred at the home of Mr. Hawes, No. 3315 Delmar boulevard, to consider the management of the convention. The ticket to be nominated to-day probably will be that selected by the meeting last night.

The convention meets at 10:30 a. m.

Altogether, the primaries were the quietest and most fiercely fought of any that have been held in recent years in St. Louis. On one side was Hawes, recently defeated for the gubernatorial nomination, fighting the battle of his successful opponent in the State Convention, against the most experienced political manager in the State, Edward Butler.

Lines Closely Drawn.

The lines were closely drawn. If Butler won it was no secret that his nominees, especially that for Circuit Attorney, would be to the interest of defendants in the boodle prosecutions. Going out with the intention of controlling the nominations of both parties, Butler received his first rebuff at the hands of the Democrats.

Hawes met his fight for a clean ticket. He had announced as much in a caucus that was held about a week ago. Since that time he has been straining every effort to line up public sentiment on his side. How well he succeeded may be judged by the result of the primaries.

Hawes won the fights which he made in the First, Second, Third, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, and Fortieth wards.

The new members will be from the Fifth, Sixth, Thirtieth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, and Fiftieth wards.

The probable new member from the Twenty-fifth is a matter of speculation, as the complexion of this delegation is somewhat in doubt.

If pledges which were given by City Commissioner "Bobby" Carroll before the primaries are kept, a Hawes man will be elected, otherwise, a Butler man, probably himself.

That the defeat of Butler was pronounced may be forecasted from the fact that James Campbell, the financier, came openly to his assistance. His influence was felt in the Third Ward. Money was on hand for all expenses.

There were a number of arrests. The work of the police was complimented on all hands.

The figures of the primaries indicate that the vote was straight. In some primaries, especially those held by the Republicans it has been the custom to have the winning side with an overwhelming majority. Yesterday's primaries showed a comparatively even show of strength by the contestants.

In the Third Ward, where the fight was one of the hardest fought, Hawes won over Miles by a vote of 272 to 161. In the First Ward, Hawes won with a vote of 454 to 219, in the Sixteenth by 374 to 288 and in the Twenty-fifth, the vote was 291 to 136.

Lavin Is Beaten.

One of the surprises of the primaries was the victory of the Culp or Straight Democratic delegation in the Twenty-eighth Ward, over City Commissioner John J. Lavin. N. W. McLeod, manager of the Folk forces, and E. S. Lewis, the treasurer of the Folk forces in the State campaign, led the delegation.

They won by a vote of 486 to 437. In the primaries for the State Convention March 12, the Lavin delegation won over the Folk delegation by a big majority, that was secured through police interference and Indian work.

Yesterday's primary in this ward was, on the contrary, a very quiet and well-conducted affair.

The voters of the ward turned out in numbers, met with no interference, and beat Lavin on his record. Lavin was one of the most popular politicians among the voters, but his methods were the chief point of attack. He was a friend of the Culp, on the other hand, will be
